JAPAN. BE LACQUER FOR SHIPS' BOTTOMS.-The uses to which the Japanese put the lacquer for which their country is celebrated are very numerous both frost an artistic and an industrial point of view. High class artistic work is most expensive, and only rich people can afford to indulge in it, the o'der work capecially being highly prized. For domestic and industrial purposes the transformations which can be worked on paper and wood by the application of lacquer are very wonder'nl, and render it most indispensable for ordinary use. Some few years ago the Japanese Government decided on lacquering the bottoms of all their iron ships, and the results proved that corresion was most effectively prevented, but the process does not seem to have been applied to any foreign ship until about two years ago, when the attention of the captain of a Russian frigate was directed to it, and lacquer was applied both to the iron and the zine parts of the bottom. To the latter it was found that the adhesion of the lacquer was very slight, but on the iron, or rather steel, it was found that it was in an extraordinary good state of preservation, so much so that it could not be stripped off except by being scraped with a sharp instrument, and from the experience thus gained it has been decided to substitute iron on the part where zinc had been used. It would be interesting to hear the result of an experiment on the bottom of a British warship, and it might be worth the while of living, with considerable risk-should not

More wary persons than this push ing and struggling assemblage had studied with care Mr. Matthew's statement that the report would first be available at the sale office, a department in another portion of the building, and it was there, indeed, that copies were to be had punctually as Big Ben boomed forth the hour of ten. As the · favoured ones hurried through the lobby with their socil, a huge bundle of the volumes was brought in on the back of a messenger for the purposes of the vote office; but owing to the door, as proviously explained, being locked, there was a momentary delay, during which the bundle was snatched from his shoulders, and copies were seized by a struggling crowd which had temporarily lost all sense of dignity in its desire to seize the report. There was then a rush in all directions with the news. While the members were struggling round the vote office the Irish wembers were not satisfied with their position, for a number of Conservatives were in front and would get the first cop es, accordingly the Irishmen devised a ruse which left ohem m's ers o'd times, but to decide whether or not he of the situation. MORE ABOUT THE PROPOSED TAX To the Editor of the 'CHINA MILL' ought to be imposed upon bill-brokers. He refers with traceful appropriateness to that time-honoured aphorism having reference to the applicability of sauce to geese generally without regard to gooder, but the beauty of diction and force of argument are rather marred by the introduction of what has some slight resemblance to venom. Had he not adopted the nom de plume 'Merchant' I should be inclined to think that he is himself a sharebroker.
